WORKING DISABLED MEDICAID BUY-IN CATEGORY

State of Alaska
Department of Health and Social Services
Division of Public Assistance
Mike Dunleavy, Governor
Adam Crum, Commissioner

What is the Working Disabled Medicaid Buy-In Category?

Individuals who are not eligible for Adult Public Assistance and related Medicaid because of earned income may still qualify for Medicaid by paying a monthly premium. This is known as “Medicaid Buy- In”.

If eligible, will I be required to pay a monthly premium?

An individual who is eligible under this category of Medicaid may or may not be required to pay a monthly premium. If a premium is required, the Division of Health Care Services, Third Party Liability Unit, will determine the amount and collect the premium. The family’s annual income will be used to determine the premium, using a sliding fee schedule.

Individuals with an annual family income that is less than 100% of the Federal Poverty Guideline won’t be charged a premium. No one will be charged a premium in excess of 10% of his or her annual family income.

Who may be eligible for the Working Disabled Medicaid Buy-In?

An individual may be eligible if he or she has been determined disabled by either the Social Security Administration or the state Disability Determination Service and is not eligible for Adult Public Assistance (APA) and related Medicaid because the individual’s or spouse’s earned income puts them over the program’s income limit.

How do I know if I meet the disability requirements to qualify?

You may meet the disability requirements if:
You were determined disabled by the Social Security Administration, and that determination is still valid;

~ or ~

You were receiving Supplemental Security Income or Adult Public Assistance benefits and those benefits stopped for some reason other than the loss of disability status because of improved health.

What is the income limit for the Working Disabled Medicaid Buy-in?

There are two income tests: The family income test and the individual unearned income test.

- Under the family income test, the family’s monthly income cannot be more than 250% of the Federal Poverty Guideline for Alaska. For example, in 2020 250% of the Federal Poverty Guideline is $3,325 for an individual, and approximately $1,330 more for each additional family member. The income of all family members is combined.

- Under the individual unearned income test, the disabled individual must meet the financial and non-financial requirements for Adult Public Assistance and related Medicaid. However, only the unearned income of the individual and his or her spouse will count in this second income test. For example, in 2020 the monthly unearned income cannot be more than $1,455 for individuals living independently, or $2,155 for a married couple living independently where only one spouse is disabled.

Who is considered a family member for the family income test?

The applicant, the applicant’s spouse, and any dependent children of either the applicant or spouse who are living in the same household a majority of the time in a month.
